Ceremony Likely to Be Performed at the Gotham and the Rev. Henry Marsh Warren May Officiate-Daniel Colt Gilman Has an Unhappy Half Hour's Session.

Owing to the fact that several evening newspapers printed stories vesterday to the effect that she had already been married, Mabelle Gilman, the actress, who is to marry William Rhis Corey on May 13, gave a further interview yesterday.

"As I said on Wednesday, Mr. Corey and will be married or. May 13, and not before," sh'd Miss Gliman tu answer to the question concorning a scoret marriage.

"It will be the first civil or religious ceremeny performed for us. The marriage will not be held at Sherry's, but it will be a feligious caremony and not a civil mar-After my marriage I shall reside in New York, as my place is with my hus-

Miss Gilman admitted that she knew

Miss Gilman admitted that she knew that the former home of Mrs. James E. Martin at 802 Fifth avenue had been leased in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Corey, but she refusal to comment on the face.

"Will the marriage be held in a church?" she was saked.

"It is too early to announce any plans for one wedding and I am not certain that any plans will be announced, as no one will be present but the members of my plans and Mr. Corey's family.

"There is one story that I wish to put at test to good," said Miss Cilman, after a married before."

test for good," said Miss Gilman, after a moment's before."

Daniel Coit Gilman, former head of Johns Hopkins University and at present head of the Carnegie Institution, came in for a share of interviewing which the eminent educates didn't seem to relish. A small army of reporters were lounging in front of the deak waiting for Miss Gilman to see them when one of the reporters discovered on the regisler the entry. "D. C. tilman, Baltimote," Mr. Gilman is tall and wears side whiskers, and when he was pointed out by the clerk the camera brigade made a rush for him. He stood stock still when he was surrounded and seemed much surprised. Then the interviewers got busy.

"Have you any statement to make about your daughter's marriage?" he was asked.

"Who are you talking a bout, I'd like to know," he replied in a puzzled tone.

"Aren't you Mabelle Gilman's father?" he was asked.

"Who is Mabelle Gilman?" demanded Mr. Gilman.

"The actress who is to marry Ellis Corey."

"Who is Mabelle Gilman?" demanded Mr. Gilman.

"The actress who is to marry Ellis Corey," he was told.

Dr. Gilman walked away without replying. Mr. Corey was caught as he was leaving the Gotham in the evening, and also said:

"What Miss Gilman has already said is all there is to be said, and was given out with my knowledge, of course. I decline to say where we are to have the ceremony performed, as we have no desire for any publicity and the marriage certainly interests no one but ourselves and families, who will be present. I want to add also that any stories to the effect that we are to be quietly married before the 18th of the month are untrue, and are probably put out by the newspapers which always seek for something to build a sensation on."

A friend of Mr Corey was authority for the statoment that the marriage would take place at the Gotham, and that the Rev. Henry Marsh Warren, the hotel chaplain, would officiate.
